ACCESSIBLE TRAVEL

Barrier-free travel: $17 Billion+ industry, a clear indication that people want to travel regardless of physical limitations

PROBLEM: PREVIOUS OPTIONS

DRAWBACKS:

- All 3 are designed for in-home use
- Do not offer portability for use outside the home
- Raised toilet seat and safety frame attach to the home toilet (cumbersome and nonhygienic if removed and attached to another toilet)

Portable

- Nonhygienic - taking germs from toilet to toilet
- Cumbersome
- Create an additional fall hazard as they may not fit the toilet properly

Briefs

- Should be used for precautionary purposes, not a solution for relieving oneself
- Nonhygienic, may cause UTIs and infections
- Creates unnecessary humiliation
- Clean up process poses a life-threatening situation for mobility-challenged individuals

TAKE AWAY

RESTORING DIGNITY AND INDEPENDENCE

No one should feel that they cannot leave home because they cannot perform the most basic act of daily living - using the toilet - when visiting family, friends, attending medical appointments, in public restrooms, and when traveling.

As shown earlier, there is a significant market for toilet safety products. Unfortunately, most products are designed for in-home use. It is very simple, actually. If toilet safety is necessary inside the home, it will be just as important outside the home - very likely more important!

The Free2Go Rollator combines the benefits of a raised toilet seat, toilet safety frame, and rolling walker/rollator. These 3:1 features make it compact and ideal for travel. A pouch is included on the under side of the padded seat to store disinfectant wipes to keep the Free2Go Rollator clean, and a cover for the commode seat is now available to make it more discreet when folded.

By simply rolling the Free2Go Rollator over any height toilet, setting the brakes, lifting the padded seat to expose the commode seat, one can safely and discreetly use a toilet in any restroom - at home ... and beyond.
